CHICAGO, August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Congress may be asked to amend the Esch-Cummings transportation act to include a definition or basis for computing the minimum cost of living for railroad employees, it was reported today in railroad labor board circles as preparations were begun for opening of the hearing on pleas for a wage increase for maintenance of way men.

The hearing was on a petition of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers on more than 100 railroads asking an increase of minimum wages from 23 cents to 48 cents an hour, a virtual demand for recognition of a basic eight hour day with time and a half for overtime.

E. F. Grable, president of the maintenance brotherhood refused to affirm or deny the reported plan to include the minimum cost of living base in proposals to amend the transportation act.

The union's position in its effort to increase the minimum wage of 23 cents an hour for track men to 48 cents an hour, was to be developed in the testimony of W. Jewett Luck, labor statistician.

Mr. Grable had prepared in addition a long statement for presentation to the labor board.

John G. Walber, representing eastern railroads, and John Higgins, representing western railroads, represented the railroads.

Seniority and new organizations of railroad employees were thrust forward by ten eastern railroads today before the railroad labor board when the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers began a hearing on pleas for an increase in minimum wages from 23 to 48 cents an hour.

The seniority question, which has been the chief stumbling block over which efforts to end the railway shopmen's strike have several times failed, came to the front when John G. Walber, representing eastern railroads, questioned the right of the United Brotherhood to represent employees on the ten roads.

In the same way new organizations were injected into the proceedings when Mr. Walber declared that as a result of strikes of maintenance men at points on the ten lines the maintenance union could not represent the majority of trackmen and shop laborers on those roads.

E. F. Grable, president of the Maintenance Union, was given until tomorrow morning to reply to Mr. Walber's contentions.

Ford Opens Fight On Profiteers

DETROIT, MICH., August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Henry Ford in announcing Saturday that his plants would be closed September 16 because of conditions in the coal industry, began a fight for what he believes is a great principle, the Associated Press was informed from sources close to the manufacturer.

Mr. Ford, it was stated, has started what he declares is a fight against alleged profiteering in coal and that he believes he is in a better position perhaps to do so than any one else.

He feels, it was stated, that by taking up the fight he is doing every other manufacturer as well as working man throughout the country, a real service.

Mr. Ford denies that there is a coal shortage. The investigations of his representatives have convinced him, it was stated, that coal brokers of the country have an enormous supply of coal on hand. The Ford Motor Company could obtain enough coal to cover a tract ten acres square if it would submit to being victimized by profiteers, it was declared.

The Detroit manufacturer believes that if he yields to what he terms "the hold up" of the coal brokers every other manufacturer will follow suit and that coal prices will reach an unprecedented figure.

The manufacturer still believes linking of the Louisville and Nashville and the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroads, the latter his own property, would solve not only the Ford Company problems, but those of every other coal user in the lakes region. Coal for shipment is available in Kentucky, according to advices here and only awaits a means of bringing it out.

Mr. Ford's plan is to bring it out.

Controversy Over Wills Of Northcliffe

LONDON, August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Doctors, not lawyers, probably will have the last word in the approaching legal contest over the huge estate left by Viscount Northcliffe, according to the Daily Express.

The executors of the first will dated March 22, 1910, contend that the second will, made just before the publisher's death and witnessed by the attending physicians, was drawn up while he was not in his normal mind. The doctors and mental specialists are expected therefore to decide the issue.

Besides four prominent British doctors a celebrated American physician summoned from New York, was also at the bedside and is expected to testify.

Herrin Massacre Probe Opens

MARION, ILL., August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—More than two months after 26 non-union workers at the Lester Strip pit were killed, what has come to be known as the "Herrin Massacre" today was the subject of official inquiry.

That the investigation, beginning today, would be fair and far-reaching was indicated by the announcement of Edward J. Brundage, Illinois attorney general, that neither miner nor coal operators had been put on the especially called grand jury.

Mr. Brundage has been assisted in the preliminary work by C. W. Middlecott, representing the federal department of justice.

A. W. Kerr, chief counsel of the Illinois mine workers, has been here for some time watching developments.

Among witnesses summoned are Sheriff Thaxton, his deputies, and Coroner William McCowan, Colonel Sam Hunter, of the Illinois National Guard, who investigated the Herrin mine war at the request of Governor Len Small, arrived here last night ready to testify before the grand jury.

It was said here today Attorney General Brundage had advanced $5,000 out of his personal funds to defray the expenses of the investigation, for which many witnesses have been summoned from other states.

TOLEDO, O., August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Donald Watkins, 17, Pontiac, Mich., was instantly killed, when the automobile he was driving turned over in a ditch near Ida, Mich., 25 miles north of here, early this morning.

QUENCHING OF FLAMES ONLY CHANCE OF RESCUE

JACKSONVILLE, Cal., Aug. 28.—(By The Associated Press)—Forty-eight miners, according to an official count, were trapped by a fire in the Argonaut gold mine two miles from here, at midnight last night. A half dozen rescue crews were trying to reach the men but little hope is held out for them.

Superintendent H. S. Garbarini of the Argonaut mine stated today that 48 of the men were imprisoned below the 4,200 foot level. Very little hope is entertained of rescuing them alive since the men are caught below the junction of the midnoon shaft and of the Kennedy shaft which lies at the 3,900 foot level.

The fire was discovered at midnight. The alarm was spread and rescue parties equipped with gas masks were sent down into the mine. They found flames raging fiercely and were unable to approach the lower levels of the mine.

The electric wiring went out of commission later shutting off light and communication. To make it worse for the men, an air pipe burst. The flames are burning in the 4,400 and 4,500 levels.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF., August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The superintendent of the Argonaut Gold Mine, where 48 men are trapped by flames, told the Sacramento Bee that the miners were imprisoned on levels too far below the shaft to be reached that way, and the only hope of rescue was by putting out the Argonaut fire.

A rescue crew, headed by Pickard and Rodney Hewes, left Berkeley for Jackson early today to effect a rescue of the men held in the mine below the 3,000 foot mark. H. M. Wolfen, superintendent of safety of the California Industrial Accident Commission, was advised by telephone that A. Garbarini, manager of the mine, had enlisted the aid of a rescue crew and had gone into the mine shaft in an attempt to smother the flames.

HELD FOR TRAIN WRECK

GARY, Ind., Aug. 28.—(By The Associated Press)—Four of nine men declared to be under arrest in connection with the wrecking of a Michigan Central express train here on August 20 today were said to have admitted they were striking railroad shopmen and one of them today told a story of how they had loosened a rail which derailed the express and killed the engineer and fireman.

CHICAGO, August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Nine men are in custody and four of them have been implicated in an alleged plot declared to have been inspired by radicals in connection with the wreck of a Michigan Central express train at Gary, Ind., a week ago. Further arrests are expected and police and railroad agents continued to throw much secrecy around the case.

ROODHOUSE, ILL., August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Arrest of three men by United States deputy marshals was reported here this morning. Although lacking official confirmation, it was believed the arrests followed the explosion at two Chicago and Alton bridges. Examination this morning showed that the explosions did only slight damage. It was reported the three men arrested were taken to Springfield.

CHICAGO, August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Sovietism represented by supporters of the Russian radical regime was under further investigation today by police representatives and special agents of the Michigan Central Railroad who are holding four men in connection with the wreck of an express train at Gary, Ind., August 20. One of the men, according to the investigators, admitted that spikes were withdrawn from the ties to cause the wreck.

Railroad union officials discredited reports that two of the men held are minor officials of railway shopmen unions now on strike. Although refusing to be quoted, union officials asserted they believed there was no truth in the reports.

Back of the arrests was declared to be a desire on the part of one man to obtain the reward of $5,000 offered by the railroad for information that would lead to the apprehension of persons responsible for the wreck.

Federal agents are seeking two more men reported to be emissaries of the Lenin-Trotsky administration in Russia. They escaped in the roundup of radicals at Bridgeport, Mich., a week ago.

Government's Policy On Rail And Coal Situation Soon To Be Made Public

WASHINGTON, August 28.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding's return today from his week-end cruise on the Mayflower, was expected in some quarters to be followed by a definite announcement of the administration's policy with respect to the proposal that congress authorize the executive to take over and operate rail and coal properties.

Before leaving on the cruise, the president, who was accompanied by Secretary Hoover, Attorney General Daugherty and Chairman Cummins, of the senate interstate commerce committee was represented by those in his confidence as still believing that industrial peace would be restored without a resort to government operation but is inclined to feel that authority for such a course should be granted as a precautionary measure before congress took its contemplated recess.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Manager Miller Huggins and four members of the New York American league club and three players of the Chicago Americans were fined by Dan Johnson, president of the American league today in connection with the protested New York-Chicago game here on Aug. first. Huggins drew the largest fine $100. The others were assessed $25 each. The fines against the New York players were imposed for what President Johnson termed "the regrettable exhibition of stalling" in the contest which resulted in a protest by the Chicago club. The New York players fined, in addition to Manager Huggins, were Bob Meusel, Everett Scott, Waite Hoyt and Walter Schang. The Chicago players who also were fined were Urban Faber, Bob Falk and Ray Schalk. The game will be played over, President Johnson decided. President Johnson decided. Instructions For Opening Of Schools

Relative to the reopening of public schools next Tuesday, Supt. Appel issued the following instructions Monday. School will soon open for the regular sessions and in order to have everybody familiar with the state requirements the following brief summary is given. Compulsory ages are from six to eighteen years. Everybody between these ages is required by law to attend some recognized school unless excused for the reasons given at the close of this article. Any child whose sixth birthday is before the opening day of school, and who would therefore be six years on opening day is due to attend school. This is local and state ruling and so is not optional with the parents. However, the Board of Education permits any child, who will be six before January 1, to enter within the first two weeks of the first semester. Any child, boy or girl who has completed the seventh grade (1. E. has been promoted into the 8th) and who is sixteen years old—upon request will be given a work certificate at the office of the Superintendent of schools. This certificate excuses the holder from school while he or she is at work. In the event the holder stops work before becoming eighteen, he or she automatically is due to return to school. From this it is seen that any child that has not completed the 7th grade must continue in school until eighteen years old. Also any child who is not sixteen and has been promoted to the high school is required to attend High school or some other school of equal rank until sixteen years old, when he may be excused by work certificates under the conditions stated above. The above covers all the state law in the matter with two exceptions—a child physically disabled and private tutoring. The disabled child must have a written excuse from the Supt. of schools, which is granted upon a written certificate from the doctor stating disability — and which the parents must personally present to the Supt., who after examination and inquiry may excuse from school.

Traction Car Hits Machine; Driver Hurt

An automobile driven by J. H. Smith, Scotto Trail, who is employed at the power plant of the street railway company was wrecked and Smith was injured, but not seriously, when the 7 o'clock Ohio Valley Traction car hit his machine at the crossing leading to the power house in New Boston Sunday evening. Luckily the machine was tossed to one side so the accident would have been more serious. It was first thought that Smith was badly hurt, but he suffered mostly from shock. The traction car was in charge of Motorman Leo Grimm.

They had gone of money to bet on the horse, which was a sure winner, but some one slipped a case and Portsmouth bettors lost a great chance to make a real killing. Embury only paid 20 to 1 on the beakereen.

Big Truck Turns Over

A truck owned by Louis M. Diste and driven by Frank Brisker, an employee, which was occupied by the driver and Mrs. Brisker and son Robert, and five other occupants, turned over on the Buck Run pike in front of the Charles Deemer farm, about 7 o'clock last night. It turned over on its side after Brisker had passed a machine and had attempted to right the truck. According to Brisker, a front wheel slipped over a small culvert and caused the truck to plunge over the bank. The occupants were badly shaken up, but no one received serious injury. The party had been visiting at McCulloch and were on the way home after spending the day there.

Doors Of Safe Opened; From $1500 To $1800 Taken; Officials Have No Clues

The usual tranquility of Waverly was shattered Monday when residents of that village learned that thieves had visited County Treasurer Jacob Slavens' office in the court house and after opening the big safe in the office, decamped with from $1,500 to $1,800.

The three doors to the big iron safe were found open. On the floor nearby lay a bar of soap in a plain envelope and a nitroglycerine was found in a three ounce bottle, the safe doors having been safely negotiated without the aid of the explosive. Two windows overlooking the iron safe and Emmitt street in Waverly were found open, one apparently having been "jimmied" and the other raised after the thieves had gained admission to the treasurer's office. He one window, which is directly in front of the safe had its curtain drawn as if to shield the robbers while they opened the safe.

News Quickly Spread
News of the sensational robbery quickly spread through Waverly and on every corner knots of citizens gathered today to discuss various phases of the affair.

The robbery was discovered by Miss Iuev Slavens, deputy county treasurer and daughter of Treasurer Slavens. When she opened the office at 8 a. m. Monday she says she was startled to find the three safe doors open, not a penny in the cash drawers, two windows raised and a bar of soap and some nitroglycerine in a bottle on the floor. Miss Slavens says she notified her father at once. Mr. Slavens being ill with lumbago. He told the Times today that he had not been at his office since last Tuesday.

In Bed When Notified
"I have been wrestling with an attack of lumbago and was in bed this morning when notified of the robbery," Mr. Slavens said. "My daughter closed the office Saturday evening and says the safe was securely locked at that time and all windows were locked. As soon as I learned of the robbery I got up, dressed myself and hastened to the court house," Mr. Slavens said.

When asked how much he thought ought to be in the cash drawer in his office, he studied a moment and then said, "Why I would judge there ought to have been from $1,500 to $1,800 in the box."

Asked when he made his last report, Mr. Slavens said, "Why last Friday I made a report for the month of July. I have not made any report so far this month, but intended to do it just as soon as I could leave my bed."

Made Report Friday
County Auditor Care W. Penn told a Times man Monday that on last Friday at 4 p. m. Treasurer Slavens made a report up to July 31.

"According to the figures turned over to me by Slavens I believe there should have been a balance on hand of about $4,000," Mr. Penn said. Asked if this amount was stolen Mr. Penn replied, "I cannot say as to this. Slavens should have had only a small sum in his office as he is compelled by law to make a report daily to the First National bank in Waverly, which is the pike county depository."

According to another version of the affair as given out in Waverly Sheriff McClay and Deputy Sheriff Daniels as soon as they learned of the robbery called at the Slavens home and notified him of the robbery. He accompanied them the treasurer's office. Sheriff McClay issued instructions not to disturb a thing and finger print experts will be called to Waverly to get an impression of the prints on the three doors of the safe. The three combinations are extremely difficult to work it was stated at Waverly and the citizens are unable to account for the opening of the safe after it had been locked. No explosives were used and there was not a mark on the safe to show that any instrument had been used according to Sheriff McClay.

Well Known Here
Jacob Slavens is well known in this city and is serving his second term as treasurer of Pike county. He was elected six years ago and after being out four years was re-elected. He was born at Galtford, Pike county, where two sisters conduct a general store. He is well known throughout Southern Ohio and has numerous relatives in Scioto county.

Slavens is a candidate for reelection on the republican ticket this year. Last week's Waverly Watchman contained a bitter attack upon Mr. Slavens, alleging that he was not making reports as to cash balances as required by law. It was also stated that Auditor Penn would refuse to issue any more vouchers until the reports in question had been made. Some bitter personalities at Mr. Slavens' expense figured in the article.

Mayor H. H. Mitterdorf and W. H. Love, of South Webster, were in the city Monday on business.

YOUNG GIRL IS KIDNAPPED

Pike county was the scene of an alleged kidnapping Sunday afternoon when it is claimed three men and women in an automobile spirited away Madge Ferguson, twelve year old daughter of John Ferguson, who lives on the canal road just north of the Scioto river bridge north of Jasper. Sheriff Chambers McClay of Waverly was called to the Ferguson home about two hours after the kidnapping Sunday afternoon but he failed to find any trace of the girl or the parties who it is alleged took her away.

According to John Ferguson, father of Madge, who is 12 years old, the child came to his home three weeks ago from the home of her mother in Columbus. She is a child of his second wife and he claims she was awarded the child by a Kentucky court when she was only two years of age.

It is claimed that the father made statements that he was going to keep the girl at his home but that he had her there.

Sunday afternoon about one o'clock a touring car occupied by three men and a woman stopped on the canal road a short distance from the Ferguson home. Two of the men went to the house and asked for a bucket of water for the radiator of the machine. Their want was supplied and they returned the bucket. Later Jasper autists who passed the scene saw two of the men were walking up and down the road like they were looking for some lost part of the machine. Mr. Ferguson in the meantime went to cut tobacco on the opposite side of the towpath from his home.

While he was there the girl left her home and took a horse to the canal to drink. It was while she was at the watering place that the two men who were walking up and down the road are supposed to have picked her up and drove away.

The father returned home in about an hour and found the girl missing. It is thought that she was taken away about a half hour before. He went to Jasper and failing to find her there he had the sheriff called. The girl has not been located.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dearest Dolly—There is a man wants to marry me, and I do not know what to tell him. He is 21 and I am only 16. Do you think we would be happy together?

SWEET SIXTEEN
I think that 16 is the first place you can marry. In the first place a girl is not full grown or developed then. She really isn't old enough to adjust herself to married life without making many mistakes that an older girl would know how to avoid. When a girl marries so young she loses all her youth and generally her good looks (if she has any to lose) and becomes sadly aged before her time. If you will wait until you are a few years older you will have your whole life before you then, and you will appreciate a husband and home of your own much more and I doubt if you would regret waiting.

JACKSON, O.—Dear Dolly—I am going to ask you what to do for bedbugs. I have tried several remedies but they don't kill them as they should.

WORRIED WOMAN
The best time to go after bugs is if you want to get rid of them is in the spring of the year, about March. If you have neglected to do this you will have an all year job fighting them. Turpentine is a good remedy for bugs. Gasoline and carbolic acid are also said to do the work. If the bugs are not in the walls of your house, I would advise you to take the bed out in the back yard and take a kettle of boiling water and pour it in the cracks where the bugs hide. Then let dry in the sun, then use your turpentine or whatever you want to use and pour it in all the cracks and crevices where they might hide. If you will varnish the inside parts of the bed that will help too, as they will not relish a month full of varnish.

Dear Dolly—I am 16 and I want you to tell me how many dates a week I should have with the boys.

IN DOUBT
A girl should not have "dates" with boys until she is eighteen. I consider it all right for boys and girls even younger than you are to play tennis and such sports together, but you are too young to go to places at night without a chaperone.

DEAR MISS WISE—Will you please print a recipe for making peach cobbler, also for sweet corn. How should a girl of fifteen wear her hair and how long should she wear her dresses?

Sprinkle with salt and put in a bag coarse enough for the liquid to drain through. Hang the bag over a wide tin pan and let the draining go on all night. In the morning put the drained vegetables into a porcelain lined kettle with two pounds of brown sugar, one half teacup of grated horse radish, one one teaspoon each of ground black pepper, mustard, whole white mustard seed, mace and celery seed. Cover with cold clear vinegar and boil until clear. Seal hot in jars with tightly fitting covers.

Canned Corn—Nine pints of corn, one pint of sugar, one half cup of salt, one and one half pints of water. Mix, let stand one hour and then boil fifteen minutes.

BLUE EYES—I can't print your recipe but will mail it to you if you will send me your name and address.

THANK YOU—I have no recipe for pickled corn or sweet potatoes.

Peach Butter—Use ripe peaches. Put them in cold water and rub off "fuzz," then peel and put into preserving kettle to cook. When soft, measure and add one cup of sugar for each cup and a half of cooked peaches used. Put back over very slow fire and boil very slowly until the butter is clear and does not run when a little is turned into a dish. The greatest care should be exercised, for it will stick to the kettle and burn very easily. Seal while hot.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS DARTON

AFTER walking until he could scarcely stand up, Mr. Tingaling, the fairymen, stopped beside Farmer Smith's sassafras garden.

He was looking for the Twins whom Flap-Doodle, a mischievous fairy, had turned into two white rabbits.

"Whoop, it's hot!" he exclaimed. "I've just looked everywhere. I'll soon begin to think those Twins aren't on this earth. Old Sprinkle Blow will have to ride his magic umbrella and look up among the stars next, I guess."

Suddenly he stopped talking and fanning, for out from under the fence stole two little white rabbits, making straight for the lettuce-bed.

"I'll bet those are the two rabbits all the creatures have been telling me about," he whispered to himself. "If I can just get near enough without scaring them, perhaps they can tell me whether or not they have seen the Twins."

So Tingaling squeezed his fat body between the fence palings and went tiptoeing over to the lettuce-bed as softly as you walk in your stocking feet when the baby is asleep.

But what was his surprise when, instead of running away at the sight of so queer a creature as himself, the rabbits gave two joyful hops right toward him, almost knocking him over.

"Oh, oh, oh! It's one beloved Mr. Tingaling!" said one rabbit.

"Mr. but we're glad to see you!" said the other rabbit.

Mr. Tingaling was completely flabbergasted.

"I—you—excuse me, but I don't believe I have ever met you before, have I?" he remarked in a puzzled voice.

"Of course you have," cried both white rabbits together. "We're Nancy and Nick. Flap-Doodle bewitched us and then flew away."

"Stars and moons!" exclaimed the fat fairymen.

FROSTING

BY BERTHA SHAPLEIGH

OF Columbia University

VERY simple frosting is made by mixing 4X Confectioners' Sugar with cream, hot water or fruit juice until of a consistency to spread. When fruit juice is not used add a few drops of vanilla or any preferred flavoring extract. Fresh strawberry or raspberry juice makes a very prettily colored frosting, and orange—a very good taste. If chocolate is desired, melt one ounce or one square and add confectioners' sugar until of the right consistency.

Ohio Wesleyan— School of Oratory

"We would rather beat Ohio Wesleyan than any other school," wrote Harvard Debate Coach to Professor Marshman on the eve of the Ohio Wesleyan-Harvard Debate in March, 1922. Wesleyan won. This was Harvard's first appearance on an Ohio debating floor, and the statement is typical of the esteem in which Ohio Wesleyan debating teams have been held for many years.

During the past year she has won all ten debates in which her team has participated; sometimes on one side of the question and sometimes on the other; against leading colleges and universities from Harvard, champions of the east, to Occidental, Los Angeles, champions of the west.

Ohio Wesleyan students are taught to "think on their feet" and "stick to their text," qualities so necessary to success in their life work.

Gloria Swanson
in "Under the Lash"
A Paramount Picture

For Three Days Only Starting Monday Paramount Presents The Beautiful And Talented Actress, Gloria Swanson In A Picture Of Tremendous Power, "Under the Lash," The Story Of A Woman's Fight Between Love And A Loveless Marriage.

Unusual strength of character portrayal is said to mark the acting of Gloria Swanson in her new Paramount picture "Under the Lash," which comes to the Eastland theatre Monday. Never has the popular star had a role better adapted to her personality than her part of the wife of the fanatical hero who rules her with an iron hand, and who finds justification therefore in his narrow interpretation of the Scriptures.

Emotional, compelling, dramatic is the picture, which is an adaptation by J. M. Nash of Edward Knoble's and Claude Askew's play, "The Slaveholder." The leading man is Mahlon Hamilton and the part of the husband is played by Russell Simpson.

Miss Swanson is seen in a new characterization, that of the abused wife of a fanatical Roger farmer who holds her in subjugation. Later a young Englishman enters her life and with his appearance on the scene, the action is rapid, thrilling and tense. The production is an excellent one in every respect and it was directed by Sam Wood. Among the supporting players are Lillian Leighton, Lincoln Steadman, Thelma Jasper and Clarence Ford.

WOO, DELL IS LAID TO REST

The Huntington Herald-Dispatch Monday said:

A last service, stately and solemn, marked by sincere grief, was held yesterday afternoon in the Fifth avenue Baptist church, for Woo Dell, pioneer of West Virginia's Little China, and leader among the members of the Chinese race for a radius of 100 miles around Huntington. Though not a professed member of the Christian faith, Woo Dell, a short time before his death on August 17, had expressed a desire for a Christian burial. Dr. John S. Jenkins, pastor of the Johnson Memorial M. E. church officiated in the absence of Dr. M. L. Wood of the Fifth avenue church.

The funeral procession, which left the Steele Funeral home on Third avenue at three o'clock in the afternoon, was preceded by Nuzzi's band, playing a funeral march, that seemed to emphasize by contrast the Sunday quietness in the streets. Following the band was the hearse, bearing the body of Mr. Dell and bringing up the rear of the procession were automobiles, carrying the members of his race, residents of Huntington and Portsmouth.

RESURRECTION ROCK
by Edwin Balmer
Little, Brown and Company

CHAPTER I
ABOUT the clear, deep waters of Lake Superior, and bounding the northern sands of Michigan, lies a realm of forest and of heights, rugged, wild, stirring—rich in copper and iron as are few other regions of the world. Kingdoms, which won wide influence, have owned far meaner materials of power; empires have warred with empire for stakes half as great.

In fact, France and her Indian allies long ago gathered forest stockades in war with England over this territory. England defended the region against the colonists.

But later the strength of the United States confined the struggle for possession to personal and individual combat of man against man—by right, by strength, by wit, by trick or by violence, open and secret—for the winning of power and wealth.

Here and there, where something had happened—for good or for evil—which a man might never forget, the ghosts drew back the living.

At last, then, thus explained the return of Lucas Cullen to St. Florentin, Lucas, the younger of the two Cullen brothers, in 1896 suddenly appeared and upon the site of the cabin where he and his wife lived when they founded St. Florentin and banded the men building the first saw-mill, he caused a new, enormous dwelling to be erected.

Lucas called this a summer cottage; and made it famous by bringing there for the summer the French noblemen, the Marquis de Cheneil, "a friend of my daughter Cecilia." The Marquis so well liked Cecilia and liked the place—not to mention Lucas Cullen's millions that he remained at St. Florentin all summer.

He married Cecilia that winter and took her—together with a million or so of Michigan forest money—to his chateau in Touraine; and neither of them ever returned to the peninsula.

But Lucas and their two sons came the next year; then Deborah married a westerner and moved to Wyoming. "Junior" Lucas and his brother John also married, and their wives preferred the more fashionable resorts of the east for the next summers.

So, at the turn of the century, old Lucas and his wife, were coming alone to the enormous frame house on the edge of the ruined mill town above the shores of Lake Huron.

The real reason for Lucas' retreat from Chicago was his break with his brother John. They had always quarreled; but now they ceased to speak, and the same streets could not hold both.

The purpose of the builder of the other great house near St. Florentin was far more puzzling. The site was upon a tiny island in Lake Huron, precipitous, rocky, locally known as Resurrection Rock.

In the summer of 1912, barges appeared and anchored in the smooth water between Resurrection Rock and the shore; artisans of a dozen trades lived upon the barges while they erected a large, handsome house, chimneys, wide of roof, graceful and pleasing.

But no master of the mansion appeared. Instead, doors locked and barred, windows soundly shut, a white farmer, who lived a mile or so away upon the opposite mainland, was entrusted with the keys and was paid to inspect the premises periodically. Yes; it was an ordinary enough house, he reported.

But, after a few inspections alone, he always took some one with him. Speculation and wonder in the neighborhood soon took hold and fantastic forms. Poor, pious people ceased to approach.

At first, old Lucas Cullen laughed at the stories; but as time went on they began to affect him.

The thing obsessed him. He was an old man now, over seventy, but hardy and strong, clear of eye, steady of hand, vindictive and merciless yet to all who opposed him. In all his long, violent life, no one had shaken him under some one, without reason, raised that house on the tiny island known locally as Resurrection Rock.

CHAPTER II
THE express from Chicago for Lake Superior and Sault Sainte Marie—operated by the government—was nearing Escanaba almost on time in spite of the difficulty of making steam against a north wind and in a night temperature of twenty-two below zero. On time was forty in the morning.

Ethel Carow was the whole name of the girl hidden by the curtains of lower four. She was a young lady of twenty-two now; but the porter who had been on the "run" for many years, knew her when she was a child—a fair, violet-eyed, light-haired little girl from the west who traveled from Chicago with her uncles and aunts—Mr. and Mrs. John Cullen or Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Cullen—to visit her grandfather at St. Florentin.

She had no mother. It developed, always was out home in Wyoming.

The porter topped gently upon the wood partition at the head of lower four. The girl within, who had been lying awake, replied and instantly stirred herself. Whatever were her reflections and speculations, she dismissed them; and whereas she had scarcely been conscious of observing the lieutenant in section nine the evening before, this morning she noticed with interest that he also was getting up.

He was on his way home from France, she had heard him say last night in answer to a question.

The train was pulling into Escanaba now. The dark-haired young man, after a question to the brakeman, got down from the step and came forward near Ethel in search of the conductor.

"St. Florentin?" she heard the conductor repeat. "No; never heard of it."

"I can tell you about St. Florentin," she offered. "It's the name of an old mill town. It's near Quebec; you take this train and get off there; then it's ten miles across country."

The young man bared his head, and his pleasant gray eyes lighted a little with excitement.

"You know it! Thank you!" he said. "That's just what I wanted to know."

"If you're going to St. Florentin," Ethel continued to volunteer impulsively, "you must be going to see my grandfather."

"Why?"

"Because he's the only man—except his servants—who lives there. It's a deserted village, except for his house."

"His name is Barclay?"

"No; Cullen—Lucas Cullen."

"Then there's no one named Barclay—or Carew?"

Ethel started a little. "My name is Carew."

"It is? Then your father's there—or is going to be there, Miss Carew?"

"My father has not been in St. Florentin for more than twenty years," Ethel said. "And now—my father was with a regiment of engineers," she explained. "He was killed last June."

"THERE'S AN ISLAND CALLED RESURRECTION ROCK."

"I was stupid," he said, "thinking only about my affairs."

"You did not know about my father," Ethel returned in his defense.

"And there is a place called the Resurrection?"

"There's an island," Ethel said, "about half a mile off shore and not far from my grandfather's, called Resurrection Rock."

"There is, then," he cried, this information amazingly stirring him. He was breathing fast; he saw as he gazed down at her; he opened his coat and was fumbling in an inner pocket when the call of the brakeman warned that the train was to start.

He seized her, he seized the train to steady her while she ran; he half lifted her to the car step and swung on after her.

CHAPTER III
Q UESNEL, the brakeman called and Ethel stood up, buttoning her coat close to her throat. The dark-haired young man looked about interrogatively; she nodded, and he arose and also prepared to go out.

"They stepped down upon the platform, and the train immediately puffed on."

"B'joo," said a middle-aged Indian to Ethel.

"Good morning, Asa," she hailed, offering her gloved hand.

"This is Asa Redbird," Ethel said to the soldier, "who lives near my grandfather and who is good enough to help us out sometimes."

"My name is Redbird Loutrelle," the young man completed the introduction, speaking to the Indian as he offered his hand.

"Where you want to go?" the Indian asked with more interest.

"With us, Asa," Ethel supplied quickly. "Can you get him skis or shoes?"

"Yes," the Indian said. "You have these ones," he offered his skis, "and over to break road all way this afternoon. I come then."

"I seem to have selected you for my escort," Ethel said as they started out.

"How did you hear the name of my father, Mr. Loutrelle?" she asked when they had gone a short distance.

He thrust his hand into a side pocket and drew out a square, white envelope with English script and postmark and with the English script "Opened by Barney Loutrelle, lieutenant of Infantry in a certain American regiment in France."

He handed it to her.

Nov. 7-18.

Dear Barney:

One named Philip Carow is here and keeps asking for you. Do you know him? He says you don't; but he knows you; or at least seems to have some mighty important business for you.

This sweet little alteration causes soon, I'd advise you to come and try to learn what he wants. If you can't, perhaps you can get him there—Philip Carow, the name. Try it and see.

Yours,

Ethel's breath stopped; she stood holding the letter with trembling hand while she examined the postmark which, like the date, wrote upon the page, was November 7, 1918.

"My father," she said, "he was killed in June."

the car was returned the frame had been sprung and the front fenders were smashed, Guthrie said. He is investigating a report that his machine figured in a collision on the "Y" road.

He furnished the police with the names of young men whom he thinks took his car for a joy ride with the usual results.

Here Is A Fine Route To Cincinnati

A good road to Cincinnati has arrived at last. Motorists who drove over that route last week bring the good tidings that there is now a route, about 134 miles, of which all but about six miles is a splendid pike, and the six miles is fairly good pike, on which a twenty mile gait may be maintained. The route is as follows: Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Bainbridge, Hillsboro, Allenburg, Lynchburg, Martinsville, Winchester, Goshen, Milford, Cincinnati.

At Allenburg there is a choice of three routes over the six-mile stretch to Martinsville. Drivers of heavy cars should take the "Middle road," as there is a weak bridge over the road the farthest to the west.

Motorecyclist Faints While On Machine Which Crashes Into Pole; Driver Hurt

Fred Ruth, aged 47, of Miller's Run, near Lucasville, narrowly escaped death this morning about 5 o'clock while coming to this city to his work when he fainted and lost control of the motorcycle which he was driving, and collided with a telephone pole on the left side of the Trail, after swerving to that side of the road. He was on his way to his work in the Re-liable Engine plant where he is employed and was just opposite the Jesse Johnson farm when he collided with the pole. William Long, who passed the scene of the accident shortly after it happened, noticed a figure in a wrecked motorcycle through the heavy fog and after making certain that some one was injured he summoned Lynn's ambulance and the man was taken to Hergestead hospital.

Dr. Fitch, who was called to attend the injuries of Ruth, could not state how badly he was injured this morning, until after an x-ray has been taken. He was knocked unconscious and was in a d'c'rium all morning, but it could not be ascertained whether he had an injury of the skull. Ruth is married and is the father of four children.

Suffers Fainting Spell

Lawrence F. Neudeorfer, of the Neudeorfer-Silcox Wholesale Grocery company, suffered a fainting spell about 8:30 this morning at the corner of Ninth and Waller streets while on his way to the offices of his firm on Fifth street.

but not suffering many ill effects from his experience. His illness was diagnosed as vertigo.

J. L. Richards, who conducts an undertaking establishment on the corner, noticed Mr. Neudeorfer leaning against his building in a fainting swoon and helped him into his office where Dr. J. W. Fitch was called and attended him.

Pictureque wide collars of white satin or white georgette, with wide hemstitching and sometimes embroidered, are featured on the new fall frocks, relieving the plain neck-lines to which we have grown accustomed.

Mr. Neudeorfer was taken to his home in Richard's ambulance at 1302 Franklin avenue where he was confined to his bed this morning.

SECTIONAL STRUGGLE FOR HALF OF EACH LEAGUE FINISHED; LOOKS LIKE GIANTS AND YANKEES

GIANTS WIN AGAIN; THE CARDINALS DROP TO THIRD PLACE; REDS BEAT BOSTON TWO GAMES

Both Clubs Are Touted To Win

(BY GEORGE CHADWICK)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—With the finish of games Sunday the teams of the major leagues can feel that they have actually entered the home stretch of the race. The western teams of the American League will no longer be seen in the east and the eastern teams of the National League will have bidden farewell to the west.

The sectional struggle for half of each league is finished. The Giants, who had road team in the early part of the year, spruced up on their final journey west, and although they did not have Douglas, their success was more marked than when they had him.

The Yankees, not always playing with high class results on the Polo grounds, breezed up and did a lot better than they had done some weeks previously and the team moved forward as the spirit moved Ruth to arouse himself.

Both of the St. Louis teams marked their progress. The Browns, representing the American League, lacked the strength to force the issue in the many double-headers that faced them in the east, but the Browns have a great team, able to rise to such an emergency as winning three double headers instead of breaking even in them. They would have been reckoned as a nine of some of that old fighting strength which made the Browns famous under Charley Comiskey. But they weren't.

The St. Louis Nationals, visibly floundering with pitchers who were shifted as often as the pictures in a movie, ran to Fred Toney for relief and Toney would have no more of baseball for the season of 1922. If the St. Louis club depends upon him for 1923 it will lean on a weak brother because Toney has been in baseball a long, long time. St. Louis on its own field, in its own city, searched back from a position of vantage to one where everything must be rebuilt as the ant rebuilds the home which is stepped upon by a number of dragons. And the rebuilding must be done upon the road by a baseball team that lacks initiative, that depends more upon the force of novelties and well-trained biceps than strategic skill and that must hammer its way into the lead rather than push others to one side.

After September 2 the St. Louis Nationals will not be seen in their native city again. The schedule program which they face is more than a bear. It is a menagerie. They should have been six games in the lead before abandoning St. Louis for the remainder of the season to take to such a battle. In succession they play Pittsburgh on Labor Day, Cincinnati 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10—that's enough to take the starch out of any team—Philadelphia, Boston, Brooklyn, New York and then Chicago.

The St. Louis Browns return home Labor Day and never depart again. The Browns are in a better position to win than the Cardinals. Should the latter team race away from the Yankees they would really be the greater victory. Beginning Labor Day the Browns play Cleveland in St. Louis, then Detroit, Boston, New York, Washington, Philadelphia, and after a lapse of days, Chicago.

The Yankees are cheerily allotted. They sing their last war song on the Polo grounds September 10. The best day finds them in Philadelphia, then Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Boston in succession to be followed by a very last game of the season at Washington, October 1.

If when they arrive at St. Louis in the middle of the coming month the race is as keen and close as it has been, the Yankees will have no peace of mind, perhaps until they get to Boston.

FIGHT TICKETS ON SALE TUESDAY

HUNTINGTON, Aug. 28.—Advance mail orders for tickets to the Mike Kearney-Nig Blair bout, scheduled for the Cliffside park Casino, Labor Day afternoon, September 4, are pouring into the office of the Eastern Kentucky Athletic club at Ashland, Ky. Among others was a telegraphic order for two hundred tickets from "Tod" Cropper, prominent sportsman, from Portsmouth, O.

The duets will go on sale Tuesday morning. Our advice to the booster fans is to do your ticket shopping early. From all indications the show will be a sell-out. Many predict that Kearney and Blair will attract a bigger gathering than the Bob Martin-Bell Brennan racket. The Cliffside Casino will accommodate three thousand spectators and standing room will be selling at a premium Labor Day.

DIES FROM EFFECTS OF BLOW

The Huntington Herald-Dispatch Monday said:

J. A. Fulk, 60 years old, a farmer, of Greenbottom, died at 8:30 a. m. yesterday in the Kessler-Hatfield hospital from injuries said to have been suffered when Banks Dillon, 47 years old, now in the county jail here, is alleged to have attacked him, claiming Fulk had made uncomplimentary remarks about Dillon's daughter.

DUNDEE TO FIGHT JACKSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—In all his dozen years of ring activity Johnny Dundee junior, lightweight champion and recognized in this state as the world featherweight title holder, has been knocked out but once, taking the full count in a Philadelphia ring several years ago after being sent to the canvas in the first round by the right hand of Willie Jackson, lightweight.

Dundee has never been able to even that score, though he has engaged Jackson on numerous occasions.

Now, since he knocked out Danny Frush, the Cleveland featherweight, Dundee believes that he has developed a sharp falling punch that might floor Jackson for ten seconds. So he has signed articles to meet Jackson in a 15 round encounter in Brooklyn, Sept. 6.

Tonight in the ring at the New York velodrome, Dundee will defend his 130 pound title against Vincent "Popper" Martin of Brooklyn, in 15 rounds. Martin is a wild, tearing type of pugilist, carrying a dangerous punch in both fists.

English And United States Golfers Clash

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Leading amateur golfers of England and the United States today met in a quartet of Scotch foursomes, the first engagements of the two days' play for the Walker cup, the international amateur golf trophy.

The conditions of play in the Scotch foursome game require each team to use but one ball. Team captains will designate the player in each match to tee-off and he and his partner then will alternate in driving from each tee.

The teams for today's matches follow:

Jesse Guldorf and Francis Guimet, United States, vs. Cyril J. H. Tolley and Robert Harris, England.

Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., and Robert A. Gardner, United States vs. Roger H. Welbered and C. C. Aylmer, England.

Robt. T. Jones and Jesse Sweetser, United States vs. W. R. Turance and C. V. L. Hooman, England.

Max R. Marston and W. C. Fowles, Jr., United States, vs. John Caven and W. Willis Mackenzie, England.

NEW COMMISSIONER ON JOB

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Major John Griffith, newly appointed commissioner of athletics of the western collegiate conference has established headquarters here, and announced today he expected to begin immediately a vigorous campaign to strengthen the collegiate sport situation in the midwest. His first efforts will be directed against gambling.

"Betting at the conference games has been the cause of most of the scandals in athletics and in my judgment is the greatest evil attendant upon intercollegiate athletics."

When they will center their last grand attack on a weaker foe. If there were only one or two games between New York and St. Louis in the latter part of September, then the Browns would be playing Boston, the natural odds of the race would favor New York. Don't overlook that. On September 4, 5 and 6, they are at Boston. On September 7, 8 and 9 they are in Philadelphia. On September 10 in Brooklyn. On September 11 at home with Boston and then in turn they play Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, resting for five days after the St. Louis games until the enfeebled Boston goes to the Polo grounds to finish the season.

Games can not be analyzed before they are played, but situations can be. Indications point to the winning of the pennants by both New York teams as September dawns.

After Strong Teams

(Fronton Register)

Portsmouth's football club organized last night. They are going to make a big venture of football this fall and expect to get together one of the strongest teams in their history. They will look games with the strongest clubs obtainable.

Ties Williams

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Rogers Hornsby Sunday knocked out his thirty-second home run of the season, tying Kenneth Williams of the local Americans for the season's record.

LEFT EARFUL

He snuck from first to number two. And not a word protested. But when he stole down to third the umpire had him arrested.

RED SOX DEFEAT McDERMOTT NINE

The New Boston Red Sox downed the McDermott Sunday afternoon, the invaders coping the close struggle by using their war clubs with telling effect in the closing innings.

The two teams battled on even terms over most of the round, the count at the end of the seventh being one all, but in the two succeeding rounds the visitors got to Brannan and solved his delivery for four tallies.

while the best home team could do was to garner a brace of markers off Slater's steady pitching. The final score was 7 to 4.

The McDermott team desires to look a game for next Sunday and the manager will be pleased to hear from any good local team. Any team desiring the date may get in touch with the manager by calling 6302 between 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

RANGERS STEP OUT OF THEIR CLASS

The crack Russell team topped the Red Rangers of Lawrence county at Red Bank Sunday afternoon, taking the second and final combat of the series 5 to 0.

Weldon pitched great ball, allowing the Red Rangers but one hit, which came in the eighth round after he was down. Bob White also pitched well but errors by his infield spoiled the bonus and gave victory to the enemy. He allowed eight scattered hits and with clean support would have blanked the Russell warriors.

Rick Yeager was the judge of play and he handled the contest in his league style.

NATIONAL REDS REPEAT

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28.—The Reds made it four straight from Boston in two days by winning both games of the double-header Sunday, 4 to 0 and 7-6. The first game was a walk-off, both Maquard and Braxton being hit freely, while Conch, although allowing 10 hits, was very strong with men on bases and received wonderful support. In the second game the Reds knocked Watson out of the box in the first inning, but the Braves went to the front in the seventh when they drove Kock to cover. The Reds tied it in the eighth off Braxton and won out in the ninth off Oeschger on Daubert's triple and an infield single by Fouseca, after Duncan and Roush had been purposely passed. Score:

PROTESTS REPUTATION

THE Montreal Daily Star sends out a red pencil marked column long editorial protesting the reputation of Montreal as a "booze" metropolis and Canada as the haven of "bootleggers" and "rum runners."

It contends that the Quebec law provides for the sale of bottled goods in strictly limited manner "to be consumed at home under the watchful eye of the wife", a single bottle to a single purchaser at one time. It would rather see Americans go up there to get it, spending $50 in hotel bills, $10 on souvenirs, a few hundred in furs, etc. than risking a few dollars for the forbidden fruit and having night riders, with silent trucks, convey it to the American parched palate across the border.

All of which leads to the declaration that it is Americans and not Canadians who are flooding the boundary with illicit liquor. This assertion rests on the fact that if there was no American demand there would be no occasion for a Canadian supply. But that does not prove that Canadians are innocent of complicity and profit in breaching our laws. The "get-rich-quick" germ is international. Nevertheless, the force of the protest against holding Canada up as the wicked partner and Montreal as a "booze" metropolis must be recognized. Neither the Dominion nor the metropolis should be blamed for the acts of these lawbreakers any more than the United States for the violations by Americans. There are glass houses on both sides of the line.

THE REVOLUTIONARY BELT

THE conference of the presidents of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador on board the United States warship Tacoma, in Central American waters, is plainly for self-defense. The bane of the revolutionary belt is that each Central American republic has its liberal and conservative factions, which work together across national boundaries. One having a liberal administration is accused of harboring liberal plotters from conservative neighboring states and vice versa, and usually with truth. This serves to keep Central America in turmoil and explains the collapse of the Central American Federation, that was set up with such a flourish a year ago.

The conservatives want such a federation of the five republics. The liberals do not, probably because they are not in control of the governments. Meanwhile American marines maintain the administration in Nicaragua against all attempts to upset it. Two abortive revolts being recently suppressed. A rising in Honduras was also squelched by the presence of our warships. The three presidents now in conference are threshing out their differences and no doubt arranging for common measures to protect themselves against trans-border insurgency.

WHAT CAN PARENTS DO?

TRYING to follow the best intentioned advice these rushing days has its perils as the father of a 13-year-old daughter in New York has discovered through the medium of a six months' sentence to jail. Whether he is of the old school with a mind of his own or has been influenced by the advice of genuinely old-fashioned who say the right remedy for flapperism and the general modern trend among American youth is a quick return to old-style discipline does not appear. What is sure is that the daughter was not so prompt in running an errand as her father thought she should have been and to impress the delinquency upon her mind she was whipped.

Instead of standing by parental discipline neighbors reported the incident which resulted in his arrest and imprisonment for six months after a magistrate had expressed regret he could not make the penalty worse. Whipping a 13-year-old girl may be one of the best cures for modernism, but a remedy which seems fairly certain to bring its own troubles. Parents are criticised by magistrates for relaxation of restraints and sent to jail for six months when they refuse to spoil the child by sparing the rod. Perhaps masterly inactivity is best.

THE WISDOM OF ADVERSITY

THE times have not dealt generously with the street fair. The business has been brought into general disrepute because of the rottenness and gambling with which they are generally accompanied.

Many cities are taboos them entirely, not caring to inquire into the character of one where all are in disrepute, but the body blow came to them, last year, when a crusade for clean agricultural fairs swept the country and the carnival companies found themselves excluded from many and the best of them.

Learning something in misfortune a movement is forming among them to come to an agreement and choose Ex-Vice President Thomas Marshall as general director, to have supreme power in the approval of all exhibits and features. A better method and choice could not be made to gain public esteem. Mr. Marshall is a plain, sturdy man, who stands for the best there is in citizenship and public morals. His approval of any show would be an all sufficient guaranty to the people that there would be nothing improper or indecent about it.

It showed that it hasn't quite forgotten how to rain, and there's something in that.

No, Lucasville isn't setting up herself as a rival of Portsmouth. She is just showing more enterprise and community spirit than the place we once prided to call The Peerless. That's all.

Italy's Socialist Leaders

Deputies Turati and Modigliani are the socialist leaders who forced the recent crisis in Italy in a vain attempt to form a socialist cabinet. This photograph, just received in America, shows the deputies in a good humor at the time they thought they had achieved the coup.

THE BIBLE IN PICTURES AND TEXT

By HELEN E. OHRENSCHALL

DAVID BROUGHT BACK TO JERUSALEM

THERE was strife throughout the tribes of Israel and the people sent for the king to come back. David started for Jerusalem. Since on this day he was once more made king he forgave all his enemies. Again the children of Israel sinned and David displeased the Lord. For he commanded Joab to go out and number the men for war. Then David's heart smote him for he knew that he had sinned. The Lord sent a pestilence upon Israel and thousands of men died. David reared an altar upon mount Moriah and the plague was stayed from Israel.

London-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

Special Correspondent of the Times
LONDON, Aug. 28.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: "Up early and with my wife to walk along the Strand. Thence to the Savoy for breakfast, where came F. Hunt and we read the agony column in the Times and all highly amused."

By petrol wagon to Piccadilly Circus and there light and strolled on the narrow crooked side streets and by and by came to the Thames and saw the Parliament Building and heard Big Ben boom the hour.

After that by Whitehall and it was pretty to see the sentries in their red surcoats and high plush hats with chin straps but Heaven! how worn and shabby the buildings are and how slowly the people move along the paves.

To lunch at the Cecil where came some fellow scribblers, pressmen they are called, three of whom laboured with me in the states and I drank two Scotch and sodas and was well high toppy but dignified withal.

In the late afternoon with my wife to Wimbledon where we saw some tennis game, not very good, and by train back to the City and saw the English version of "Sally," a musical play, and found it well acted. Strolled through the brave moonshine and watched the night coffee and sandwich vendors. So home and to bed.

One gets the swank of London with a bang by registering at any of the big hotels. At mine—The Savoy—the clerks all wear boiled shirts and cutaway coats and so do the bell boys. It is rather difficult to tip a bell boy in a frock coat, especially when he is full grown, but it doesn't seem very difficult for him to take it. The elevator man—pardon, lift men—are all old and white haired. They bow you into the elevator as if announcing your presence before the king. The little page boys take the eye with their cocked, chin strapped caps and buttoned corset coats. They do not expect more than a tuppence tip for any errand.

The dance palaces in London play almost exclusively the popular airs of American composers. "Some Sunday Day" and "Stumbling" are the favorites just now. The dancing is just a little more conservative in its swing, although a few essay the shimmy in the Broadway fashion.

Many of the side street hotels here have signs reading "Temperance Tavern." The proprietors say they gain much additional business from American tourists because of the signs. All of which upsets the theory that Americans come over here to go on the loose.

The first night in London a heavy fog, the biting, chilly kind, swept over the city. It was impossible to distinguish lights across the street. Everybody seemed to be whistling. It is London's way of warning of an approach during a fog. In an entire day I saw only one straw hat and it was worn by an American. I recognized him as a passenger on the same ship with me. Most of the Britishers wear flat derbies and in the late afternoon the young "nits"—ludes we call them—promenade in their high topers. Young men of 16 and 17 are plentiful in this style of head-gear. I find that I have not during my first day seen a beautiful or strikingly dressed girl or woman. It may be that it is because it is not the London season. Everybody is away to the summer places. Only the yokels like myself are in town.

Harbor Lights

Blue twilight drifts across the rippled tide,
Blotting the distant shores, while from the sea
The wind brings whisperings of hulls espied,
And lone spurs washing off some troubled lee.

A deepening purple rests upon the flows,
The tide is lapping at the anchored ships,
Then legacies away we mark a flash of rose,
A range light where the far horizon dips.

Starboard and port they break upon our sight,
Flashlights that swim to life and swiftly swoon;
White fires holding steadily through the night,
Mocking defection of the faithless moon.

White lights and red they gleam like precious gems,
A splendid setting for the harbor rim;
The hope of faring craft when mid-night hums,
And unseen perils to the surface brim.

Weak Stuff

Donald: "I've Ken Mac fell in the river on his way home last night?"
Willie: "Ye dhinta mean tae say he was drowned?"

HOW TO START THE DAY WRONG—BY BRIGGS

He Got The Post

After a ruthless process of rejection there were five applicants for the post of errand boy left for the head of the firm himself to interview.

It was one of his flippant mornings, and he sought to amuse himself by asking the eager boys puzzling and quite irrelevant questions to test their general knowledge.

"How far away from the earth is the north star?" was the question he fired at the third shiny-faced youngster.

"I'm sorry I cannot give you the exact figures, offhand, sir," was the reply, "but on a rough estimate I should say that it is far enough away not to interfere with me running errands."

He got the post.

Everybody Pleased

"How's that new baby? Last I heard you wanted to call her Pearl and her ma was hiding out for Ruby."

"And her grandma wanted to name her Opal."

"Well, how did it come out?"

"Ignored nobody and satisfied everybody."

"Eh?"

"Called her Jewel."

Quick Repairs

Siam has electricity now and the thoughtful electric light people are doing their best. In every room in a Bangkok hotel is posted a notice in various languages. Its English version reads:

"Sir: For the case that your electric light should fail, we beg to send you enclosed a postcard, which please send us at once when you find your light out. The company will then send you another postcard."

IF YOU ARE WELL BREED

You treat other people's property as considerably as your own.

You do not waste the hotel stationery just because there is a liberal portion provided or deface the furniture because it doesn't belong to you.

Likewise you depart without collecting a supply of ovals or of other hotel property just because you may do so without being detected.
